Current News of Busy Globe Told in Brevities

J. F. Zapatan leaves today for a business visit at Phoenix.

E. G. Kinyon of Solomonville is a business visitor in the city.

Harry Markowitz, the Los Angeles hide buyer, arrived in the city last evening.

D. D. Sullivan, the well known mining man and promoter, has gone to the coast for a brief vacation.

Mrs. W. G. Shanley entertained a number of friends last evening at a card party at her home on the Ball grounds.

W. H. Wheeler, architect for the Randolph lines, came in from Tucson last evening for a few days' visit on company business.

Jack Rice, the well known powder salesman, is spending a few days in the city selling explosives to local dealers and mining companies.

Harold Marshall, forest supervisor, came up from Safford last evening to look after his duties in connection with the Pinal Mountain reserve.

C. A. Kennedy, cashier of the Gila Valley Bank & Trust company at Solomonville, arrived in the city last evening to spend a few days on business.

Attorney J. Weinberger returned last evening from a ten days' absence. He spent a few days in Kansas City on business and visited relatives in Denver on his return trip.

Superintendent Henry V. Snell of the Arizona Commercial company and his bride, formerly Miss Carroll, returned last evening from their wedding trip and are at home in the Fisk residence on South Broad street.

H. B. Hovland returned last evening from Bisbee. Mr. Hovland states that all of the lots in the Warren townsite which were placed on the market have been sold, a record which exceeded the anticipations of the company.

Messrs. Nelson, Jenson and Smith, the Pennsylvania stockholders of the Arizona National company, returned yesterday from the mine of the company with Superintendent L. B. Scholl. They expressed themselves as highly pleased with the outlook at the property.

Attorney L. L. Henry has returned from Phoenix, where he spent a week making the homeward trip by the way of Florence and Casa Grande, on account of the washing out of the bridge of the M. & P. road. While at Phoenix Mr. Henry was admitted to practice before the supreme court.

NORTH GLOBE TO ASK ANNEXATION

Residents Will Petition Council This Evening—Appointments Also to Be Made

A lively session of the city council is anticipated this evening and there will be much business of importance and interest transacted. It is understood that a majority of the taxable inhabitants of North Globe will petition the council for annexation to the city and their request will undoubtedly be granted. The size of the city will be almost doubled by the admission of that part of North Globe which is not now in the corporate limits.

Probably the business of most interest scheduled for tonight is the appointment of city officials. A city attorney, clerk, marshal and supervisor of streets will be named and there will probably be a contest over the marshalship, as it is understood that there is considerable difference of opinion among the city dads as to who would be the best marshal. Dave Heron seems to have the best chance for the job, but it would not be surprising if a dark horse took it. George Hill and J. Weinberger seem to be slated for attorney and clerk respectively, and R. C. Goodwin for supervisor of streets.

PIONEER HOSE HOLDS ELECTION

Globe Fire Fighters Will Celebrate Ninth Anniversary March 22

Pioneer Hose No. 1 held its annual meeting on Monday night and elected officers for the ensuing twelve months as follows: President, Ed T. Stewart; captain, H. H. Pratt; foreman, S. C. Saylor; secretary, Steve Tillman; treasurer, Harry Sultan; trustees, Joe Crowley, W. W. Brookner, Harry Sultan. The ninth anniversary of the organization of Pioneer Hose occurs March 22 next, which the members propose to celebrate with a banquet, as has been the custom for a number of years.

Pioneer Hose is a most worthy organization that has rendered valuable services to property owners and to the town as a whole, and has been maintained without expense to the interests protected by it.

Globe has now reached a size and importance where larger and more modern apparatus is needed for the protection of property from fires, and it will devolve upon the city government to make provisions for this change by levying a tax to purchase new equipment and for the maintenance of the service.

Until such time Pioneer Hose will maintain its organization and should receive every encouragement from the business men and property owners of the city.

CRAZY ACT OF BOOZE MANIAC

George Anthony, a Miner in the Santa Maria District, Shoots Up Camp Fires at Mine Owner and Then He Walks in the Snow Barefooted.

As yet the county officers have not located George Anthony, who, during a drunken debauch, fired two shots at D. H. Smith, owner of a mining camp in the Santa Maria district, and after chasing Smith from the premises, set fire to the tent, which was burned to the ground, with its store of provisions and clothing, says the Gazette.

Smith engaged Anthony, a stranger in the county, to assist him in the development of his properties. After starting Anthony to work, Smith left for Hillside, where he had purchased a load of provisions. Among the purchases made was a five-gallon jug of whiskey. After unloading and storing the provisions, Smith and Anthony started celebrating, imbibing liberally of the liquor.

During a lull in the conversation Smith noticed that Anthony has unloaded his shotgun and rapid fire rifle and put the cartridges in his pocket, and in addition had appropriated all of the ammunition in the tent. Smith remonstrated with him and the latter reloaded Smith's rifle and then ordered him from the premises under threats of death.

Smith ran from the tent, and when only a short distance away Anthony fired two shots at him, which happily missed their mark. After Smith's departure, Anthony set fire to the tent, burning it with its entire store of provisions.

During the progress of the flames, Anthony stripped all his own clothes from his body except his left shoe and threw them into the fire. He then left the place and made his way to Marshall's camp, about a mile distant, where he arrived early the next morning, sans everything in the way of wearing apparel with the exception of the shoe on his left foot.

Alarmed at such a sight the miners there took the man in charge and dressed him in what clothing they could spare. After partaking of some nourishment, he informed them that he had come from Smith's camp and stated that Smith had left the place and that he had burned down the camp.

A search party was organized and Smith was found that afternoon in Leesman's camp, about three miles away, where he had made his way in the darkness, after being shot at by Anthony.

AGAIN SENDS A SPECIAL MESSAGE

criminally for us to surrender to our commercial rivals the great commerce of the orient, the great commerce we should have with South America and even our own communications with Hawaii and the Philippines.

"I earnestly hope for the enactment of some law like the bill in question."

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Figures That Talk

Senator Beveridge in addressing the senate today on his bill to prohibit the transportation in interstate commerce of the products of child labor declared that the census shows that nearly two million child breadwinners under 15 years old are at work. Of these almost 700,000 are engaged in work other than agriculture. Child labor on the farm is good, he said. The bill does not strike at that. It strikes only at child labor in the factories, mines and sweatshops. Appalling as these figures are, they do not show the full enormity of the evil. He presented a large number of affidavits, photographs and published articles setting forth conditions under which children labor in factories, mills and coal breakers.

State Legislation Won't Do

Beveridge argued that state legislation is inadequate to stop the evil for the reason that if one state passed a good law the manufacturers are placed at a disadvantage in competition with states which refused or neglected to pass good laws. Beveridge urged that his proposed act is in no sense a restriction of legitimate state rights, and quoted at length from decisions of courts to prove the bill constitutional. To save human beings from ruin, he said, is the purpose and effect of the bill.

Debate on Salary Raise

The discussion on the salary measure was general. Mr. Berry contended that $5,000 was not a grossly inadequate salary for senators and members of congress. He denied that they could not live on that amount. "There is not half of them," he declared, "who ever could or ever did make $5,000 a year engaged in any other business."

Senator Nelson offered an amendment confining the increase to the vice president, speaker and cabinet officers. He said: "We, as legislators, are today paid higher than legislators of any other country."

Not Society Swells

Nelson then gave figures showing the salaries paid legislators in European countries, and continuing his argument spoke with resentment of the idea that legislators were here as laborers for a salary. This was a post of honor and the pay was enough to live modestly. "We do not want to enter the social world," he asserted.

Senator Gallinger favored the increase. He said: "We have been increasing salaries all along the line except our own. The heads of various bureaus and some private secretaries get almost as much as we; interstate commerce commissioners get twice as much, as do any judges."

"Living expenses," he said, "do not represent the total demand upon legislators." Each member, he continued, must make political contributions. This was just and so were many other demands which could not be avoided.

Lodge Approves

Mr. Lodge in favoring the increase said that the members of the English parliament received no salaries; that the Irish members received contributions from the people of their district and from their American countrymen, and that the labor members were paid by labor unions. This was a bad system and he believed Great Britain was coming to recognize it.

Mr. Mallory proposed an amendment making the increase apply after 1913. On the roll call the Nelson amendment cutting off the increase to senators and members was defeated 56 to 17. The Mallory amendment postponing the increase to 1913 was voted down 61 to 14.

Oratory in House

WASHINGTON, January 23.—This was a day of oratory in the house, the pension appropriation bill affording the opportunity to a number of Republicans to make speeches not only in behalf of the bill, but on tariff revision and the San Francisco school incident. On the latter subject Mr. Hayes of California insisted that all California desired was to be permitted to continue American and that the Chinese exclusion law should be made to apply to Japanese coolies.

Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio occupied an hour and a half discussing the tariff.
